Mechanic paid with life for defending sister

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A MECHANIC was stabbed in the heart after sticking up for his sister, a court has heard.

Keith Orchard, 29, from Walgrave Drive, Bradwell, pleaded not guilty to the murder of Kevin Joyce (pictured below) at Luton Crown Court on Monday.

The prosecution told the jury that Mr Orchard, a scaffolder, stabbed the 27-year-old mechanic in front of his work colleagues outside Kipling Motorist Centre in Denbigh Industrial Estate on September 8, 2007.

Mr Joyce, from Margram Crescent, Monkston, died later that day at Milton Keynes Hospital.

On Monday prosecutor Neil Moore said that Mr Orchard was an obsessive boyfriend of Mr Joyce's sister, Katy Gunn, who received abusive text messages from him when she ended their relationship.

He told the court Mr Joyce warned his sister about going out with him, before Mr Orchard threatened that he would 'put him in a box'.

Miss Gunn asked her brother to get Mr Orchard to leave her alone but the two men ended up arguing on the phone.

Mr Moore said: "It resulted in Mr Orchard travelling to the deceased's place of work, concealing the knife in his tracksuit top with the blade already open in the locked position.

"At the centre there was a verbal argument and without any warning he removed the knife and lunged at the other man's chest.

"We say it was unprovoked and unjustified and effectively Mr Joyce was killed for sticking up for his sister."

Miss Gunn described her ex-lover as 'obsessive, abusive and controlling'.

Five work colleagues and a customer witnessed the attack but did not see a knife.

The lock knife was never found by police.

During police interview Mr Orchard said that Mr Joyce had raised a hammer as if to strike him so he pulled out the knife in self defence, but he did not realise that he had stabbed him.

James O'Gorman, 41, of Polruan Place, Fishermead, is accused of helping Mr Orchard commit the murder.

When the garage manager attempted to phone police Mr O'Gorman threatened him, jurors heard.

Mr O'Gorman denies murder, assisting an offender and affray, claiming he went to the garage to act as a peacemaker.

The trial continues.

All at sea?

THEY will be making waves at Willen Lake this weekend when it plays host to the Jetski British championships.

The truth WAS out there...

A GROOM has shed light on last week's supposed UFO sightings.

Iain MacNair, who was staying at the Parkside Hotel in Woughton on the Green, set off 100 sky lanterns after his wedding the day before.

On the same night six 'UFO sightings' were reported to Thames Valley Police after people from Woughton on the Green, Monkston and Bletchley saw mysterious lights moving through the sky.

Last week a police spokesman said that 'no one knows what they are'.

Mr McNair, an IT analyst from Stantonbury who married Tracy on August 23, said: "It was our wedding the day before, but the weather was bad so we postponed the Chinese lanterns until the next day.

"We knew straight away that the UFO sightings were actually our lanterns. Now there are some videos of the UFOs on Youtube with some really really funny comments."

Kurt Macintosh, receptionist at the hotel, added: "They had lanterns at their wedding but hadn't let them off so they asked us if they could set them off," he said. They are sky lanterns and travel quite a way. Everyone went outside to look at them."

Traditionally used at Asian festivals, paper lanterns last around 20 minutes, rising 1,500 metres from the heat of their flame and potentially floating for miles. While there may be an explanation for these sightings, the Ministry of Defence has logged several unexplained objects flying through Milton Keynes in the past 11 years.

The sky lanterns

Tracy and Ian McNair

These include a round disc, about the size of a fighter jet travelling at 300mph at approximately 1000 ft. This was seen moving south east seen in Monkston in 1997.

There was also a high speed moving golf ball 3-4000ft that same year, as well as a black triangle, smaller than an airliner spotted in Bletchley.

In August 1998 a 'large and revolving' circular object with square lights and windows from the outside going to the centre.

And in 2001 a black kite shaped object 'headed west and often changed its speed'.

In 2002 a glowing orange boomerang shaped object was moving very fast and in 2005, when a person was travelling down the motorway, they saw red balls in the sky moving north west.

Clubbers' homage to the Sanctuary

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

HUNDREDS of clubbers turned Ikea into a dance floor when they launched an impromptu rave in memory of a nightclub that was bulldozed.

Plans for the secret rave have been developing for two months and on Saturday hundreds of insiders filtered into the textiles department while unsuspecting families shopped for flat pack furniture.

At 3.30pm a horn sounded and the group launched into an intense two minute frenzy of whistle-blowing and shape-throwing moves.

A number of police officers were on hand but no arrests were made.

Rave organiser, Jack Trend said: "We were a bit apprehensive about how it would go but it was a real giggle - even the staff and police enjoyed it.

"It started of as a stupid idea that I sent to 23 of my friends on Facebook but it snowballed into something big really quickly."

A staff insider estimated that there were over 200 people raving inside the store but the management refused to comment.

The group was formed on the social networking website Facebook, in remembrance of The Sanctuary nightclub, which was bulldozed on the site where Ikea now stands.

Within weeks more than 2,000 members had signed up to support the feat.

Impromptu Sanctuary remembrance

Jack said: "I wanted to make sure it was done responsibly so we had a look around the site and the textiles was the most logical place.

"The day had a really good mix of people, babies and toddlers, through to a couple of parents who are in their 60's.

"It was exactly what The Sanctuary was about - diversity, unity, a group of people coming together to have some fun leaving their inhabitation's at the door."

The nightclub became a favourite thanks to its relaxed dress code and big name acts but closed its doors in 2004.

■ DOZENS of complaints from fishermen sparked a clampdown on ravers at a noisy pub in Bletchley on Saturday.

Police and environmental health officers were called to the Beacon Pub after anglers at Mount Farm Lake complained about noise levels from the End of Summer party in the pub's garden.

Accident shrine desecrated again

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

A GRIEVING family's lovingly-tended tribute to their dead relative has been repeatedly wrecked.

A wooden cross dedicated to 36-year-old Ricky Fordham, who died on his red Yamaha motorbike on the V3, has had to be replaced eight times since last September.

His mother Joan Fordham erected the shrine at the spot where he died – caused by a driver's lack of concentration – three days after the accident.

Mrs Fordham, 63, said 'it means so much' to her to be able to visit there place where her son, a painter and decorator from Kents Hill with one son, took his last breath.

But every time the family has placed photos, messages, flowers, an Arsenal football scarf and even heavy planters on the roadside they have been stolen.

When the family visited the shrine after Ricky's inquest it had been dismantled again.

Even the police, who are opposed to shrines being erected on safety grounds, have put up surveillance signs to deter vandals.

She told MK NEWS: "It's heart-breaking. Ricky was killed instantly, but I feel that's where he took his last breath and so it's very important to me.

"For months they kept taking it down - even on the day of the inquest.

"His friends like to go there. He was killed instantly and the shrine means so much to me. It's off the road and as long as we keep it tidy it's ok.

"It's not an eyesore – it's a place we can go. It's not doing anybody any harm."

Milton Keynes Council, whose policy says that no new shrines should be erected after 2005, says it has not removed anything from this site.

Malcolm Collis, Thames Valley Police Roads Policing Department, said: "It is understandable that local officers would wish to do all that they can to lessen the additional grief caused by the vandalism of roadside shrines although this is not something we would encourage in the future."

Cockroaches close Chinese restaurant

A CHINESE restaurant has been closed after cockroaches were found in the kitchen.

Environmental health officers from Milton Keynes Council shut down Samip restaurant, in the Central Business Exhange in the city centre yesterday afternoon.

A notice was posted on the door saying it had been closed due to a 'serious infestation of cockroaches resulting in a real risk of food contamination'.

A council spokesman said: "During a routine six monthly inspection by environmental health officers on Monday evening cockroaches were observed in the kitchen areas.

"As a result a Hygiene Emergency Prohibition Order was issued and the Chinese restaurant closed until the situation has been rectified.

"A further inspection will be made when cleaning work has been carried out to our satisfaction."

The restaurant owner, Sunny Liu, said the infestation was not serious and that the kitchens are very clean and his staff properly trained in hygiene.

He added that he took over the restaurant from its previous owners several months ago and has employed a pest control company to come in regularly.

"If I knew that hygiene was not up to scratch I would not have the doors open, I am a professional" he said.

He hopes the restaurant will be open in a matter of days after it has undergone a deep clean.

University views

SIR - Further to Dr Alfred Vella's letter which appeared on August 13, I feel it's important to address his comments.

It's unfortunate that he holds such a negative view of the former University of Luton.

The University of Bedfordshire, as it now is, has an excellent reputation for high quality teaching and student support, which is demonstrated, for example, in the fact that we offer one of the most generous bursary schemes in the country. These are Government-endorsed statistics.

This year, we were runner up in the 'University of the Year' category at the Times Higher Awards for the huge progress this institution has made in the last few years, not least for the £100m+ investment programme that is transforming our campuses.

In recent days we have been awarded Investor in People status for developing and investing in our staff.

We already provide a wide range of courses for students across Bedfordshire and Buckinghamshire, from campuses in Luton, Bedford and Aylesbury and are delighted to be able to join forces with our partner Milton Keynes College to offer higher education opportunities to people in Milton Keynes.

Patricia Murchie,
Director of Communications and Marketing, University of Bedfordshire

Issues need sorting

SIR - Traffic signal delays getting out of London prevented me from attending the meeting at which Mouchel's report on crossing points for Watling Street were discussed.

This was a shame as it would have been nice to have a good laugh at it.

When I read all of the report (twice) including maps, one had to wonder what planet Mouchel and Milton Keynes Council are on.

The council by employing Mouchel to carry out flawed research and write a dreadful and condescending report, was not independent and made a wise decision.

Those responsible need to consider their futures because this can not be allowed to go on.

I vote for councillors to look after my interests. I do not vote for consultants.

It does not help that we do not have a permanent Chief Executive even if the stand-in is doing what one hopes she can.

This state of limbo has to be resolved by Christmas or the whole town will fall apart.

Issues around Watling Street still need resolving and now is the time to bring a halt to any thought of any traffic signals.

At grade crossings have, in my mind, are an excuse for traffic signals and I don't think even appeared on the scene until opposition to these signals game to the forefront of the debate.

It should be remembered that the WEA is not being built for existing nearby residents and all facilities such as schools and doctors are not for the use of them.

The need for many crossings is thus dubious and no figures have been produced to show likely pedestrian usage.

Sky lights were a high light of Sunday night

SIR - Regarding the story of UFO sightings on Sunday night, I too saw this ('UFOs sighted over MK - the truth is out there' – MK NEWS August 27 2008).

I have experience of flying light aircraft and am nearing acquisition of my European pilots licence. I can confidently state that these were not any known aircraft.

My best explanation would be Chinese lanterns due to the closing ceremony of the Olympics in Beijing. However, it was a calmish evening and the lights were travelling horizontally and not vertically as Chinese lanterns tend to. I know this because earlier this year in Thailand my wife and I lit a Chinese lantern to celebrate our first anniversary.

They were travelling very fast which would suggest that they were lit close by and once they reached a certain height, perhaps 2,000ft or so, the wind was much stronger than on the ground which is quite normal.

Some of the lights where blinking almost like a beacon. This is also something I have seen Chinese lanterns do as the burner starts to die out. I have also read other reports of similar sightings throughout the UK.

Whatever it was it was pretty cool to witness.

Abysmal Government

SIR - It was interesting to read the first two letters in MK NEWS on August 20, which – once again – highlight the contempt that our Local and National Government have for the public.

They have totally lost the plot and fail to appreciate that their whole purpose is to provide an administration to run the services necessary to support our wellbeing.

We – the public – provide the money to allow them to do that. Unfortunately their effectiveness and efficiency is on the whole abysmal.

They assume our pockets are deep and spend our money with an alarming indifference.

I am sure that there are exceptions and these should be encouraged and congratulated. It would make a pleasant change to hear of some examples.

In the same edition of MK NEWS was an article highlighting a bridge over the V10 that had been left in an unsafe condition until the paper became involved.

This report caught my eye because over a month ago I had reported, via the council website, some shrubbery and a broken branch protruding into the road on Mercers Drive in Bradville which was causing a safety hazard.

I did not receive the courtesy of a reply and even the intervention of a local councillor has not resulted in the removal of the hazard.

Is it really so difficult to allocate a couple of people for a couple of hours to attend to this small maintenance problem?

Get a grip Milton Keynes Council! Get your house in order. We are providing the money that you are spending and we are not happy.

We pay your wages and we need you to be much more effective and much more astute with your finances.

Post Office closures

SIR - Through your letters page I'd like to thank the nearly 2,000 people who have signed the Liberal Democrat petitions protesting about Post Office closures in Milton Keynes.

The local Lib Dem council is working as fast as it can to investigate the idea of stepping in and taking over one or more of the threatened Post Offices itself, to prevent the closure.

Because these plans are unlikely to be ready in time, when I sent the petitions in, I asked if there could be a stay of execution while this proposal is worked out.

At least the Lib Dems are trying to do something positive. The Conservatives started the rot by closing 3,500 Post Offices when they were in power. The current Labour Government has already closed 4,000 Offices.

Another 2,560 Post Offices are under threat now, and so far only three per cent have escaped the axe. How dare the local Conservative and Labour MPs protest against these closures, when they belong to the very Parties who have allowed this to happen?

We all know that a Post Office isn't like a greengrocers or a shoe shop, it is a significant part of the 'glue' that holds a community together.

Given the vital role that a Post Office plays in many areas, the Government must acknowledge that the Post Office is a business with a social service role, and find a way to take this into account.

Another 2,000 closures will be announced shortly. Don't relax yet – this fight has only just begun.

Jill Hope
Liberal Democrat Parliamentary Candidate
Milton Keynes North Constituency.

Misled by notices

SIR - I am not sure who is responsible for the designation of the parking restrictions and placement of signs on Queensway in Bletchley along the business trading section of Queensway.

From the correspondence I have had after objecting to a parking ticket for parking on Queensway during a time designated for Permit Holders only, I understand that the notices and their location meet with statutory requirements.

If there is a need for Permit Holders only parking then surely the signs should be clearly visible and easily seen and understood by the driver while driving? They are not.

While the notices and their position may meet statutory requirements, as a driver they are neither easily seen or understood as to what they allow or do not allow while driving.

I did not deliberately ignore the signs, and until I was issued with a ticket and the traffic warden pointed them out I was not aware that the sign was there and even then that it applied to the parking space I had used.

The sign was positioned on an adjacent parking space with no indication that it applied to more than one parking space or a length of the street.

If there is a restriction on parking, particularly outside shops and the Post Office, then surely it should be made easily and clearly understood so that drivers can see and read the signs whilst driving.

No driver can see and read the present signs while driving, unless he is willing to risk an accident or to hold up traffic while he studies the confusing information on parking restrictions if he does manage to see the signs before parking.

At present there are two signs at either end of about eight parking spaces to which the restrictions apply.

The signs are high, and parallel to the road, so not easily seen or read while driving.

There is no right and left arrow on the signs indicating that the restriction applies along a stretch of the road and covers all the parking spaces between them.

I watched recently, while Traffic Wardens patrolled the street having a field day issuing tickets because the parking was restricted to Permit Holders only, and it was apparent that there were many drivers who also do not see the Parking signs and are not aware of the restrictions.

At the moment the best that can be said is that the signs are a good income stream for the council from parking tickets due to the poor clarity of the parking restriction signs.

Bus driver faces court over roundabout crash

A BUS driver is set to appear in court after driving straight into a roundabout.

The MK Metro bus careered off the V7 road in Bletchley and onto a roundabout where it smashed into a tree. The bus came to a standstill and passengers helped each other off as traffic came to a halt. One woman suffered bruising after banging her head during the collision.

No other vehicles were involved and police cordoned off the roads while investigations began.

The driver was interviewed and has been reported for summons for driving without due care and attention.

The incident occurred at Prince's Way roundabout last Sunday, August 24, at about 10.15am.

No one from MK Metro was available for comment yesterday.

Crackdown on kids' drinking

Under-18s nights in central Milton Keynes are a common sight - as are the police officers who routinely patrol them, scanning the crowds for anyone looking to spoil the teenagers' alcohol-free fun. Reporter JESSICA CUNNIFFE went out with the police who were testing some new technology in order to ensure 'nappy night' does not end in tears.

GONE are the days when evening entertainment for children was a termly school disco, with the excitement culminating in the DJ playing the Grease Medley.

For the youth of Milton Keynes in 2008, being allowed the run of top club Oceana – with the music, the lights and the thousands of people – is a frequent occurrence.

But the police are there to sure alcohol does not ruin the night and on Wednesday night they were there using pioneering technology for the first time as part of Operation Diaper – appropriately named since these under-18 events are often known as 'nappy night' – to test soft drinks for alcohol.

Because even though no alcohol would even be on show in the club, which anticipated to reach capacity of 2,000, soft drinks were being swigged outside which could potentially be spiked.

It was easy to see why Inspector Colleen Lavery and her team wanted to deter the children from drinking.

Not long into the shift at 7.30pm they discovered a 15-year-old girl slumped outside the club with two helpless friends, rolling in her own vomit and unable to stand.

Inspector Lavery learnt the girls were planning to take a taxi home – but a driver would not have taken someone in her state.

"It's the risk really. We know that young people's bodies don't cope with alcohol so well."

Despite these problems, Oceana Manager Mark Molton said 'it's always an easy event'.

"Kids in Milton Keynes are brilliant – really positive and pretty trouble free.

"This is the biggest event in the country with 2,000 under 18s coming on these nights.

"What we get with people under 18 is just positivity which is infectious.

"There is no gang culture or some of the problems you get in other cities."

Police talk to the friends of a girl who has collapsed in the street

Later that night the children proved him right. The tester strips all came up negative, and apart from two other people were found inside the club under the influence, there were no arrests.

Schools to close after disagreement over head

TWO schools in West Bletchley are set to close and be replaced with a new primary school.

Milton Keynes Council's cabinet was due to discuss recommendations to apply to the secretary of state to close Rivers Infant School and Rickley Junior School last night (Tuesday, September 2).

The initial plan was to amalgamate the two schools but this was scrapped after school governors could not agree who should be headteacher.

Funding for the £8.9 million project has been put aside in the capital budget for a community primary school and nursery to replace the schools in 2011, after nearly £28 million of government funding axed from the city's school build grant was returned in May.

The new budget was set to get the go-ahead last night.

Statutory proposals were to be published to close Rivers and Rickley on August 31, 2009.

The new school would be provided across the existing school sites until the new building is opened in January, 2011.

Once a six-week consultation has been carried out the proposal will be sent to the secretary of state's department for their final decision.

Plans have also been submitted to the council to build an extension and parking on Wellsmead Junior school.

The school is set to close temporarily for refurbishment over the next year and all pupils will be relocated to Wellsmead First School. Once the work is complete staff and students will return to the junior school site and the first school with close permanently.

The plans will be discussed at the council's development control committee on Thursday night (September, 4).

The council says the changes to all four schools are necessary to tackle the problem of declining pupils in the area.

MK SPOTLIGHT ON THE CITY – COFFEE HALL

Coffee Hall comes to terms with new

Choices: Izzabella Sayer outside her Coffee Hall home

LAST week the state of the city's estates was revealed in the council's 2008 social atlas. Despite efforts to get out of the top ten, Coffee Hall has risen from seventh to fourth in the table of 'estates with difficulties'.
In the first of a series of spotlights on city estates, reporter JESSICA CUNNIFFE went to meet the real-life figures behind the facts and figures to find out about life on Coffee Hall.

AS places across the country vie for their position in village of the year competitions, a similar struggle is happening in Milton Keynes – in reverse.

Estates like Coffee Hall are trying to lower their ranking in the council-compiled worst estates chart.

But it is difficult. According to this social atlas, the ward in Coffee Hall falls has more residents who are more likely to rely on benefits, expect much poorer health, have a lower standard of education and suffer from crime than the average person in England.

The estate streets are named after London coffee houses.

The grey houses on the estate – most of which were built with breeze blocks following a brick shortage in the 1970s – seem to reflect the bleak statistics.

But on Coffee Hall you don't have to look through the windows to gain an insight into residents' lives – just look at the windows themselves.

While some council houses are on their second set of double-glazing, Coffee Hall's single-glazing has never been replaced - and an upgrade is not imminent.

As a result, pensioner Izzabella Sayer has not been able to heat her home since 2006. The hefty prices of the gas meter and old windows mean the disabled resident was forced to choose between freedom and comfort – funding her mobility scooter or heating.

"If it's cold I go to bed. Winter comes, winter goes – that £200 they give you send you is a waste of time because the meter gobbles it up," she said.

"When I last had that money I bought food. I've chosen to keep my mobility scooter and keep my freezer full."

But it is the estate's old-fashioned elements which are also its good points.

Unlike some of today's cramped streets, Coffee Hall's dwellings are large and parking plentiful. That most people use their front gardens creates a community atmosphere - and because it has a large disabled and elderly population there is more neighbourly socialising in the daytime.

Cllr Steve Coventry said: "The houses themselves are brilliant. Some people look at them and go 'I'm not so sure'.

"But when there were rumours of demolition people said they would lay down in front of the bulldozers – and rightly so.

Cllr Steve Coventry leans against a walnut tree – this used to be the name of the pub which is now a church

"People understand problems each other are going through, unlike in an area where everyone's out at work all day.

"You build up a circle of friends here. It is starting to get like London and Liverpool where everyone has extended family living nearby."

However, it's this demographic which means Coffee Hall will never be able to shake its problems.

"This area has the largest percentage share of elderly and disabled bungalows and highest social housing. It is harder to get social housing

low on 'list of shame'

now and there is a greater need so we are never going to bring the area up in that respect.

"The social atlas shows a lot of work that needs to be done in the area. The life span here is eight years less than other areas. If you don't look into it in more detail it can worry you. But we have a much older generation. These are reasons why, in many ways, it can't be changed."

The poverty of the place is an easy target for people offering quick loans.

"People prey on it," he said.

"They tell you that you can have a £300 loan if you want – but the interest is something like 170 per cent. They come round every Friday and just before Christmas."

However there are elements that can be changed meaning residents vow to 'improve that we can improve'.

"We have been neglected for a long time," said Cllr Coventry – partly due to the 'shortage of funding from the city council' and the complicated system of local government allocation.

Though it is close to the city centre, residents feel remote from the newness.

"We do feel a bit neglected sometimes," said Cllr Coventry.

"We see the shiny new facilities going up – when's it going to be our turn? When are we going to get our double glazing?"

He added: "The city centre is brilliant but it is expensive to go down there if you can't drink, you severely restricted on facilities you've got down there – airkix and the snodome are expensive."

In fact, the estate itself is seen as isolated – namely by the young people.

DJ Tom Adams, 17, said: "Coffee Hall people feel more excluded.

"Coffee Hall people won't come here to the community centre if people from Fishermead are here. But we want to break all those barriers."

Cllr Coventry added: "The grid roads are like a barrier. This is Coffee Hall, this is Beanhill. Kids feel a little bit wary when they go out of their patch.

"Their residents' associations work together and the kids all mix at school but in social life they don't."

While it may not have the glitz of the Hub, is certainly has plenty of facilities, including one of the three art workshops in MK, an out of school programme and youth centre.

Coffee Hall even has a unique pub-turned-church, the Walnut Tree which became Christ the Vine, another church, an Islamic community centre on the way. Its grid square has more educational establishments than any other. But at the same time it can feel like a dumping ground.

"Just because it's a deprived area, why do we need to have all city-wide facilities here that are of no benefit to out community?" said Cllr Coventry.

"It has become a dumping ground for the rest of the city's problems."

But somehow the flaws that continue to secure Coffee House's place in the top five worst estates gives it what other places crave – community spirit.

Dissatisfaction with a rat problem, the old windows and the loans companies unites people. Through disability, retirement and unemployment people socialise more.

Even the fact that many residents cannot afford to run a car – car ownership is the lowest in the city – means they are environmentally friendly.

So it is this people power that defies the problems.

"I've lived here for 16 years," concluded Cllr Coventry. "It's not the poshest estate or got the best houses, but it's got the best people."

Beanhill remains bottom of the pile

BEANHILL is still the worst estate in Milton Keynes.

In the council's annual name-and-shaming of the 20 'estates with difficulties' — commonly known as the list of worst estates – it is joined in the top five by Netherfield, Fishermead and Coffee Hall, with Water Eaton and Hodge Lea in joint fifth place.

The rankings come from figures based on benefits, teenage pregnancies, domestic fires, violent crime, educational achievement and disability.

Seventh is Fullers Slade, followed by New Bradwell, Conniburrow, Fenny Stratford, Stacey Bushes, Central Milton Keynes, Tinkers Bridge, Greenleys, Eaglestone, Bradville, Stantonbury, Neath Hill, Springfield and Far Bletchley.

Beanhill and Netherfield are non-movers – in fact, they were the two worst estates on the 2004 list.

New additions to the chart, which MK NEWS has been publishing for six years, are Bradville, Neath Hill and Far Bletchley.

However, Granby, which shot to third place last year, has dropped out of the list, as have Eaglestone and Peartree Bridge.

Margaret Roberts, chairman of the Beanhill Action Group, objects to the rankings, claiming Beanhill is actually the best estate in the city.

"We don't believe it at all. We are fuming because our estate is mostly old people, disabled people and people on low incomes. They compare us with other estates which are a lot wealthier. Our crime rate is low.

"We don't agree with the list. We think Beanhill is the best estate. There is even a waiting list because people want to move onto here."

Councillor Isabella Fraser, chairman of the Fishermead and Oldbrook Residents' Association, said: "Fishermead is not a problem estate – it is an estate with pockets of problems.

"The problem is too many houses in multiple occupancy and too transient a population. We've not been able to stop their growth."

Councillor Isobel McCall, leader of the council, said: "Its disappointing that this estates haven't improved against other estates. I understand a number of this indicators have moved in favourable directions.

"There are two different ways of looking at it – which estates need the most help, but also that the estates are relative to areas.

"You do also have to look at the fact that the type of people living in areas are different.

"The rank doesn't mean they a problem estate. We didn't press release it this time because the media like to draw attention to the rankings.

"It's very useful. We are not doing it as an exercise to say this estate is better than another."

BT ready to cut off 33 phone boxes

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

PLANS to remove more than 30 phone boxes have angered the city's pensioners.

Milton Keynes Pensioners Association is angry at proposals by BT to remove 33 'disused' phone boxes in the Milton Keynes area.

The phone company has notified Milton Keynes Council of the plans as it must consult with the local authority before removing a public phone box which is more than 400 metres from the nearest pay phone that would remain.

The phones on the hit list include Chichley, Astwood, Hardmead, Filgrave, Clifton Reynes, Olney, Haversham, Hanslope, Stony Stratford, Wavendon, Woburn Sands and Little Linford.

Two of those at risk are in Newport Pagnell, three in Bletchley and others are in Winter Hill, Kents Hill, Great Holm, Wavendon Gate, Stantonbury, Stacey Bushes, Shenley Church End, Milton Keynes Village, Willen Lake, Netherfield and Woughton Park.

Peter Ballantyne, spokesman for Milton Keynes Pensioners Association said older people still need pay phones in emergencies as many do not own mobile phones.

"This is another example where the needs of pensioners does not seem to have been thought about," he said.

"In real terms the group who least uses mobile phones are pensioners.

"Many cannot master them, or feel they are to expensive.

"My mother was an example - she had one, brought by her sons, but could never work out how to switch it on.

"Many pensioners therefore need payphones to ring for assistance while they are out.

Not happy: Peter Ballantyne with the at-risk phone box in Shenley

"This is just one more example of so called 'public services' being eroded."

Other pay phones may also be removed without consultation with the local authority if they are within 400m of another phone box.

A spokesman for BT said: "BT is committed to providing a public payphone service, however over the years as usage has declined BT has been constantly reviewing and where necessary rationalising its public payphone estate in order to meet demand.

"This is nothing new, and we will continue to do so.

"Almost 60 per cent of our payphones are unprofitable, with almost 6,000 phones making less than one call a month.

"Payphone usage has halved in the last two years and calls are still declining at 20 per cent year on year."

He added that the company has placed notices in the affected phone boxes outlining its plans.

The plans will be discussed at the council's development control committee tomorrow night (Thursday, September 4).

Cabbie speaks out over spray ordeal

A THIRD taxi driver attacked in the face with burning spray in the space of one month has described his terrifying ordeal.

The Ace Cars driver, who we agreed not to name as he fears for his safety, spoke to MK NEWS after being temporarily blinded on Tuesday, August 19 at 8.20pm in Heelands.

He has been a driver for five years but now fears that any passenger could turn on him, as happened to other drivers on August 3 in Bradwell Abbey and August 17 in Wolverton – both times with eye-burning spray.

"It's just scary – I'm not going to do nights for some time now, though it only happened at 8.20pm," he said.

"Its just a risky job and it can happen any time, but I have to make a living.

"If something like that happens again what if they've got knives? I'm always on edge now."

He described picking up four men from the MK College construction site in Kiln Farm under the name James.

> It must have been very hot as my face was burning, not just my eyes but also my face and left ear. Imagine if someone's sitting behind you and puts something on you and you don't know what it is
> Ace Cars driver

"When they told me to stop in Heelands one sprayed me in the face. I think it was chilli pepper. It smelled like it.

"After that I got out and went straight to the back of the car and opened the boot and tried to get water.

"It must have been very hot as my face was burning, not just my eyes but also my face and left ear.

"Imagine if someone's sitting behind you and puts something on you and you don't know what it is.

"It was like someone burning my face. It was really really painful.

"I went to hospital but the doctor said when you put water on it it makes it worse – and that is what I'd done."

This was the driver's first serious violent incident in five years, although he was once assaulted by an aggressive passenger who threw coins at him and tried to get back into the car.

Last Friday he returned to work after taking two days off, having been told there will be no long term damage to his sight.

A police spokesman said they are looking for witnesses to the attack, and anyone with information can contact Milton Keynes police station on 0845 8505505 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.

Gig is held to thank hospital unit for life

Louis Andrews' all-day event is to say thank you to the intensive care unit

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

A WAREHOUSE worker who was left fighting for his life when dozens of ovens fell onto him, is putting on a gig to raise money for the intensive care unit that saved him.

Louis Andrews, 24, from Crownhill suffered serious head and brain injuries in June 2007 when a beam collapsed at a Newport Pagnell kitchen appliance company based at Jenna House in North Crawley Road.

Twenty six ovens, each weighing 41kg, fell onto him.

Now Mr Andrews – who was in a coma and spent nearly 15 weeks in intensive care – is holding a charity day to raise money for the unit.

He said: "I spent most of the time unconscious, in a coma.

"But I believe the intensive care staff saved my life on at least three or four occasions."

On Saturday, September 6 he has organised an all-day event including a six-a-side football tournament and family day at Shenley Leisure Centre – which they are letting him use free of charge – followed by a performance from live band This Happy Breed.

Mr Andrews – who also suffered a fractured cheekbone, broken rib and collapsed lung – is still undergoing rehabilitation and needs a carer for 40 hours a week.

The effects he has been left with are similar to that of someone who has suffered a stroke.

But he counts himself fortunate as his family was initially told he might never walk again.

"They said I may have a computer talking for me," he said.

"At least I am still alive and walking and talking."

"I'm so grateful for everything they did in intensive care," he added.

"They gave my family and friends terrific support during what must have been an awful time."

Football teams who want to take part in the event, which starts at 10am, should email Mr Andrews at ITUcharityday@hotmail.co.uk or call 07902408967.

MEP's lucky escape as Parliament roof collapses

PART of the European Union's parliamentary building collapsed – directly onto the seat of an MEP who represents Milton Keynes.

Daniel Hannan, Conservative MEP for South East England, was lucky not to be sitting in the seat when the roof caved in.

But he is pleased that the EU was beginning to fall apart – what the Conservative member has been campaigning about is the wastefulness of 785 MEPs and their clerks, cooks and chauffeurs during his years in office.

Mr Hannan said: "Had the Parliament been in session, it would have buried me and a handful of Euro-sceptic MEPs, including those who sit for UKIP.

"I can quite see why the building wants to get rid of me. I have been campaigning for years against the waste involved in the Parliament shifting between two seats.

"Each month, this preposterous peregrination costs the taxpayer nearly a billion pounds, to say nothing of the environmental impact – while the EU lectures us about eco-consciousness, it causes a wholly unnecessary 90,000 tons of CO2 to be produced each year.

He added: "I've always said that the EU would eventually fall to pieces, but I didn't expect it to happen so soon."

The Parliament, which was due to reopen this week, has switched to its other home in Brussels.

So you think you can drive?

BACK BEHIND THE WHEEL: Reporter Laura Hannam with Louise Thomas of the Institute of Advanced Motorists

FOR more than 50 years the Institute of Advanced Motorists has been helping people across the country become safer drivers. MK News reporter Laura Hannam had her skills behind the wheel put to the test by trying out the Milton Keynes group's free assessment.

AS I walked up to shake the hand of Louise Thomas, chairman of the city's branch of Advanced Motorists, I felt like I was taking my driving test all over again.

Ahead of the assessment I didn't think I would be that nervous as at 23-years-old I am quite confident about my driving.

I passed my test first time three months after my 17th birthday and have a relatively unblemished record.

But I am generally better at criticising other people's driving than my own and, like most motorists, have a long list of pet hates on the road including tail gating, drivers who don't indicate and those who travel at 40mph through any speed limit.

Since moving to Milton Keynes over a year ago I have seen some fascinatingly awful driving, including the motorists that daily cut you up on roundabouts and vehicles at a standstill for no apparent reason on dual carriageways.

As we set off for the 45 minute assessment I was initially hesitant and struggling to drive as naturally as possible.

During the drive Louise fired an occasional spot-check at me to test my knowledge of the speed limit on a particular stretch of road. I was amazed at how often I was uncertain, even if 90 per cent of the time my answer was correct.

Louise took me through built-up areas, down country lanes and along grid roads to test my skills and reactions in all kinds of environments.

She also kept talking to me to test my actions when I was distracted.

Apart from swerving slightly on a roundabout as the exit I wanted had been moved by road works I thought I had done relatively well.

I finished with a flourish by tapping the car against the curb as I pulled into a parking bay.

I asked Louise what the damage was, but she said it had been a 'good drive'.

In a closing 15-minute debrief she assessed my skills according to a grading of four levels.

She rated my signalling, overtaking, courtesy and consideration for other road users and concentration at grade one, advanced standard.

My overtaking was "excellent, confident and clear."

I needed a little more guidance (grade two) to get to advanced level on starting off procedures, clutch control, use of accelerator, use of brakes, road positioning, making progress, observations, hazard perception and planning ahead.

My awareness of speed limits and my steering both earned a berating groan from Louise and a grade three, meaning average standard.

She told me to stop crossing my hands over and try to keep both hands on the wheel, as I have a nasty habit of resting my left hand on the gear stick or my right arm on the window ledge.

"You have more stability in the car when both hands are on the wheel," she said.

She added that to get to advanced standard I would need to look further down the road, improve my use of mirrors by checking behind me before I speed up and learn a different way of using gears, using the brakes rather than the engine to slow down.

She concluded: "Overall it was a good, safe drive, it wouldn't take a lot to get you to test standard."

The assessment I tried out is provided free of charge for car drivers or motorcyclists by Milton Keynes Advanced Motorists (MKAM).

The charity also offers 'Drive Check', which includes a similar assessment and one year of membership to the national Institute of Advanced Motorists (IAM).

The 'Skill for Life' package is available for those who would like to go further and take their Advanced Driving Test.

It costs £99 for car drivers and £109 for motorcyclists and includes the IAM book 'How to be a Better Driver', all the sessions needed to get you up to standard and the test.

MKAM has 35 qualified observers and ten senior observers who hold group meetings and one-to-one sessions with motorists to help them achieve advanced level.

The package also includes one year's membership to the IAM and MKAM.

IAM is currently offering a £20 discount for drivers under the age of 25. On top of this, to celebrate the national charity's 50th anniversary last year, the Milton Keynes branch will give £50 cash back to people in this age group when they pass their test.

Drivers who pass the advanced test are 75 per cent less likely to be involved in a collision and 93 per cent of IAM Advanced Drivers find IAM Surety car insurance costs less.

Louise explained: "We don't crawl along at a snail's pace, waiting for danger to appear in front of us.

"In fact Advanced Drivers and Riders are able to make better progress, by searching for chances to move through traffic, choosing safe places to overtake, planning our driving, anticipating what other road users are going to do and trying to be ahead of the game.

"We help people to become confident and decisive drivers and riders."

Arcade raiders will leave pound coin clues

ARMED robbers stole £1,000 from an amusement arcade after threatening a woman with a knife.

Two men stormed into Agora amusements in Bletchley at 8.30pm on Thursday and threatened the lone shop assistant.

The woman was forced to open the change machine and the men took about £1,000 in cash, largely made up of one pound coins, before escaping from the arcade, on Queensway.

Detective Constable James Shepherd said: "The woman was extremely frightened by the attack and we want to catch these men before they can strike again.

"We would like to hear from anybody who may have seen these men or have information about them. We also want to hear from anyone who has been offered a substantial amount of £1 coins in exchange for notes or if anyone has been seen with a large amount of coins."

Police described both men as about 5ft 8ins and white.

One wore a dark coloured Lonsdale hooded top, black trousers, white trainers and black gloves with a white circle of the back of his hand.

The second was wearing a black parka jacket, blue jeans and dark trainers.

Anyone with information can contact Det Con Shepherd on 08458 505505 or call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

IT'S COMING: An artist's impression of the new leisure centre that will be opened by the end of November next year

'Common sense has prevailed' as town's development begins

A BID to make Bletchley Leisure Centre a listed building and stop its redevelopment has been thwarted.

In June, English Heritage received a single request to list the building – which if upheld would have spelt the end of the project to regenerate this part of Bletchley.

Council leisure chiefs revealed on Monday that they had received written confirmation from English Heritage that the request had been rejected.

Paul Sanders, the council's Leisure & Culture assistant director, said: "This is great news, because if it had been upheld, it would have effectively scuppered the entire project.

"It was always in the back of our minds that someone, at any time, could put in a request to have the leisure centre listed, and it would have to be considered by English Heritage.

"That risk would only disappear when we demolished the old leisure centre and as we wanted to keep the doors open whilst the work was going on, the threat was always looming in the background."

Vanessa McPake, the Cabinet member whose responsibilities include leisure and sport, added: "This is a huge relief – the council and its partners see this project as a central scheme in regenerating Bletchley. Common sense has prevailed.

"I would like to thank all those that spent time lobbying English Heritage and the Government, to ensure this project went ahead."

The new centre is set to be finished by the end of November 2009 and will open prior to the old one being demolished.

It will include a fitness suite, an eight lane swimming pool, a large sports hall for badminton, netball and basketball, a martial arts and gymnastics area, four squash courts and an eight lane indoor bowls rink.

There will also be a bar, creche, cafe and children's play area.

It is set to form the centrepiece of the regenerated town.

The project will also see 300 new homes constructed along Princes Way next to the new centre, and a 180 space multi-storey car park.

Emergency service gets carnival cash

THE 2008 carnival was an awesome success and many charities benefited from the overwhelming generosity of the residents from West Bletchley.

The biggest benefactor on the day by far, was the Thames Valley Air Ambulance – this year's nominated charity.

Covering Berkshire, Oxfordshire and Buckinghamshire, the service has flown more than 10,000 missions to give people emergency assistance and, when required, take them to hospital to receive the expert medical treatment best suited to aid their recovery.

Whatever the emergency, the Air Ambulance is a vital service aimed at getting people treatment within the 'The Golden Hour' – the period of time when they have the best chance of surviving a serious accident.

They have the ability to land in difficult places, a key asset, in the areas they cover given the many rural places that a conventional land ambulance would struggle to reach.

But you helped them to help you.

The Air Ambulance costs over £1.7M a year to keep running, and receive no funding from the Government, NHS or the National Lottery, and it is only with the wonderful support of the people and local companies in the three counties, through donations, fundraising, legacies, sponsorship and their own Lottery, that they are able to meet their targets.

For further information about the Trust please visit their website: www.tvacaa.org or contact us on 0300 999 0135.

Pub raises a glass to carbon neutral beer

jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

YOU may have heard that drinking red wine is good for your heart. But what about if someone told you drinking beer helps the environment?

The Nut and Squirrel pub on Barnsdale Drive, Westcroft launched East Green, the UK's first carbon neutral cask ale on September 1.

It is part of the first managed pub group, which includes the Ship Ashore in Willen, to launch the ale which has been produced by Adnams, the UK's leading environmental brewer.

The guest ale, which was scientifically engineered by the University of East Anglia's carbon reduction team and at recycles 100 per cent of the steam created during the brewing process and uses it to heat 90 per cent of the following brew, will be available at the Nut and Squirrel until September 30.

Pub manager Anthony Surtees said: "As a pub manager you get to hear about what matters to your guests and helping to preserve the environment certainly comes high up their agenda.

"That's why we are absolutely delighted to be given the opportunity to be the first pub group to stock Adnams East Green ale, the UK's first carbon neutral ale.

"Real ales are living beers that come in many different varieties and as a dry and refreshing beer with a subtle citrus and grassy hop aroma I'm sure East Green will excite the palettes of all of our expert ale drinkers, and even encourage other environmentally conscious guests to give it a try too."

The light golden beer is also produced from a high yielding barley grown in East Anglia, therefore decreasing carbon emissions from transportation, and Boadicea Hops which are naturally aphid-resistant, reducing the need for pesticides.

Visit www.emberinns.co.uk for details.

Recycling double standards rankle in the south east

PEOPLE in this region only recycle half of their rubbish.

And according to Zurich, the financial services company, people are placing too much reliance on councils' green schemes instead of seizing the initiative themselves.

Thousands of tonnes of recyclable waste are going to landfills or incinerators because 23 per cent of people in the south east throw away items they know they could recycle do so because travelling to the recycling centre is too much hassle.

A third of people will only recycle if it is picked up from their doorstep and one in eight think it is too much trouble to wash out containers.

The survey also reveals that despite the majority supporting supermarkets' plans to charge for plastic bags, there is significant hostility to the move with a fifth of those surveyed in the region disagreeing with the initiative.

Andrew Jepp, Head of Local Government for Zurich, said: "This research clearly shows the green double standards of the average Briton. While people are in favour of recycling, we still throw away half of everything we use – largely because we think it is too much trouble to change our habits."

"This data also displays the scale of the problem councils face when it comes to recycling in this country. People are only happy to go green on their own terms and that means a heavy reliance on Local Authority initiatives.

"As recycling will only grow as an issue in the coming years, people will further demand easier access to green initiatives. Therefore it is vital for councils to continue to develop flexible plans to meet the demands of this changing landscape."

Cycle trail to raise stillbirth awareness

A MAN grieving for his stillborn son is going the extra mile to raise money for other families affected by the condition.

Chris Wildsmith, from Newport Pagnell, is riding the Trans-Cambrian Sportive on September 7 – crossing the Cambrian mountain range 13 times in 90 miles to raise money and awareness.

He will ride with a picture of his son Elliot, who would have been 13 months old, taped to his bike.

With his wife Nichola (pictured), he is campaigning for a national strategy on stillbirth – which is ten times more common that cot death – backed by city MP Mark Lancaster.

He said: "I'm doing this because I want to continue raising awareness of stillbirth, the fact that 17 babies are dying every day and that with research and stronger antenatal processes could substantially reduce this number. All the funds will go towards the Sands Why 17 campaign.

"More than anything I'm riding for my son, who I'd have loved one day to take out on a bike and enjoy the freedom – his memory will be with me through every pedal stroke"

Around 17 babies die each day as stillborn or neonatal death, seven of which, like Elliot, are thought to be avoidable.

He is also leading a group of parent activists who are pushing to change policies, procedures and awareness as part of the stillbirth charity, SANDS.

Take the Stagecoach

We teach 4 - 16 year olds to act, sing and dance, which helps build their self-esteem and develop their character and communication with others. Stagecoach education in the performing arts is about reaching potential, finding creativity, making magic with like minded friends. Whatever their future role may be, young people could be rehearsing for it, while they enjoy themselves at Stagecoach. Although Stagecoach is open to all young people with an interest in the performing arts whatever their ability, it does provide opportunities to perform professionally and some students have found considerable success in film, television and on the West End stage.

MK LETTERS EXTRA

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Grid system critics

SIR - Barbara Thompson makes some pretty sweeping statements in her defence of the grid road system, (MK Letters, August 20).

The master plan for MK may have envisaged it 'contributing to the provision of public transport', but in the event the grid roads got built, the public transport did not.

If she thinks that the grid roads allow a good public transport system to be introduced perhaps she should have a word with the managers of Arriva to see if they agree with her.

And why have we still not got anything like satisfactory public transport here after nearly half a century?

She blithely talks about no one living more than 500 metres from a bus stop.

I myself live slightly less than 500 metres from a bus stop as buses run through part of the estate, with a reasonable service of buses every 15 minutes, which is fine if I want to go to the town centre, and dont mind making a tour of other areas, sometimes passing the same point twice! It's not so good if I wish to go to Westcroft or Kingston or the Stadium MK or the hospital or Bletchley or Stony Stratford. And if I want to travel in the evening or a Sunday then forget it.

I wonder if she would fancy having to walk 500 metres, possibly having to face a trip through a forbidding, litter strewn underpass to reach her car. Or perhaps park 500 metres from the supermarket or not be able to travel in the evenings?

I suspect that Ms Thompson, who like many others extols the virtues of grid roads, has never tried using public transport in this town. Let her try doing without her car for a week and then see if Milton Keynes grid roads 'lend themselves to the provision of such a system'!

Public transport, to be effective, must at least approach the convenience of the private car, and I suggest the grid road layout makes this much more difficult to attain.

A bus company that tried to run a basic grid road service didn't last long, mainly because the density of population close to the bus stops simply was not high enough to make the service viable.

It is interesting that the so called quality bus routes mainly serve areas that don't have the grid road system, like parts of Bletchley.

Grid roads are expensive – expensive to build, expensive to maintain, as we are now finding out, and expensive in land use.

Many of the people who want the grid road system extended would think twice if the costs fell on them directly instead of being hidden in the national roads budget. We'd all like some nice new roads for free, and so would all the other towns and cities in the country. If the costs fell on those who would benefit the pressure to build them would quickly evaporate.

National road pricing can't come quick enough!

Michael Weinberg
Giffard Park

Grid system threat

SIR - The comments from Barbara Thompson (MKNEWS Letters, Aug 20) are a superb reminder of how MK's grid-road system serve motorists and public transport users alike. Both these groups of road-users should be fighting harder to defend our grid-road system against the threats it is facing from the Council's Lib Dem adminstration.

Grid-roads allow traffic (both cars and buses) to move across town smoothly and rapidly, with the minimum of traffic lights, junctions or other reasons to stop. They provide road-users with a range of alternative routes, for use in emergencies or times of peak usage (concerts at the Bowl, for instance). They cater for massive increases in usage as new neighbourhoods are built on the edge of the city and as in-filling takes place within the urban area. They contribute to road safety by separating pedestrians from cross-town traffic.

Under this Lib Dem administration, MK may well lose all these benefits. New areas will have 'city streets', forcing the bulk of road-users to go through the heart of the new neighbourhoods instead of round the outside. And the existing grid-roads are being attacked, by one traffic-light scheme after another.

If MK residents (both car and bus-users) want to add their voice to help protect and expand the grid-road system, please email me: John.Bint@MKConservatives.com

FORUM LOOKS AT NEW ROADS

A NEW residents' forum is to discuss the future of Milton Keynes' grid roads.
The citizen's group is to be formed by Milton Keynes Council with the task of weighing up the pros and cons of grid roads, city streets or a combination of the two.
After hearing evidence it will present a report to the environment policy development committee with its conclusions.
The council is calling for seven to 10 volunteers to sit in the group, preferably with no pre-defined view on the subject.
To be involved contact Fran Bower on 01908 254165 or fran.bower@milton-keynes.gov.uk

DUTY CUT NO HELP IN MK

THE Government's new policy on stamp duty will not help the residents of Milton Keynes.
That is according to city MP Mark Lancaster who said that yesterday's announcement on suspending stamp duty for a year on houses costing less than £175,000 is pointless.
"Stamp duty is an all-or-nothing tax.
"If you buy a house for 175,000 you pay nothing, but 176,000 you pay the two per cent," he said.
"It just kicks in - it is not graduating.
"For the people of Milton Keynes this is going to do nothing.
How many houses are there at present that are on the market for less than £175,000 in Milton Keynes?
"It's too little too late.
"I would call on the Chancellor to raise it to £250,000 and begin to make a difference to houses."

HOSPITAL HAS ITS OWN COP

THE hospital has recruited a new dedicated police officer for the safety of its patients.
Gordon Walker's role is to reassure staff, visitors and patients that safety is a priority.
The A&E-based uniformed officer is funded by the hospital and Thames Valley Police.
The Trust aims to cut crime through prevention, and Gordon's role focuses offering advice to staff and patients on policing issues and crime prevention.
His role involves providing a security service in and around the hospital to protect patients, visitors and staff.

Take shopping in your stride

GET fit while out shopping – that is the message from thecentre:mk

The Everyday Activity Project and the shopping centre have joined forces to put on an 'Everyday Activity Health Walk' to encourage people back into sport.

The Central Milton Keynes health walks are being run around thecentre:mk at 7:30am every Monday and aim to give people the opportunity to try some low impact exercise without braving the British weather.

The walks are led by qualified walk leaders and are designed to help improve the health of those taking part, regardless of their age and current fitness level and will last 30 - 45 minutes.

Kirsty Heath, Everyday Activity Coordinator said: "The new series of walks are a great opportunity to get some low impact exercise.

"We currently run a number of schemes across Milton Keynes. However, the use of thecentre:mk means that the walks can take place without being exposed to the weather and they are timed so that local residents, including the local business community, can take part in the walks before work."

Co-ordinated exercise walks in shopping centres started life in America and they are now so popular that in the US and Canada some manufacturers market special 'mall-walker' shoes 'to give extra traction for smoother, slicker mall floors'.

Robert Goodman, Centre Director at thecentre:mk added: "thecentre:mk is delighted to be involved in such a scheme. With the recent success of the Team GB at the Olympics we should all feel inspired to do more exercise.

"According to the Met Office, this summer has been the seventh wettest summer on record for the UK, therefore the fact thecentre:mk is able to offer one mile of covered walk ways is ideal for a project like this. Also, the building is perfectly suited to attract people from the local community and workers in Central Milton Keynes."

For those interested the walks will start outside Marks and Spencer, at the entrance next to the Levi's store (door 2) at 7:30 am every Monday until October 6. For more information and to register your interest contact Kirsty Heath on 01908 254456 or email kirsty.heath@milton-keynes.gov.uk

The great outdoors comes inside

CUSTOMERS can expect to be at one with nature with a new interior design concept at John Lewis.

Design manager for Home in John Lewis, Mockie Harrison has put together an autumn and winter season with a focus on nature.

At the forefront of people's minds at present is the environment and with this in mind the team looked for inspiration from the great outdoors.

The current contemporary story is entitled 'Naturalista' with an emphasis is on clean living, creating pieces for an urban lifestyle that has a twist towards nature.

During the process of creating a trend the design team come up with a storyboard.

Mockie said: "This season the emphasis is on texture. A cushion with relief give a change to the landscape of your room"

"There is also a trend towards a diffused look – there is definitely a return to dressing windows. Gone are the days of absolutely nothing at a window. Layering is in, blinds with curtains too. Sheer blinds have become popular.

"The key colours for this season are fig and carrot - fig is a deep purple/blue shade, carrot is obviously orange but not too bright a shade.

"If you don't want to change furnishings and fabrics, interiors can be lifted by the good choice of decorative accessories.

"There is a huge range of accessories, which are arriving in the shops now. Choosing objects to display at a focal point is great and with the range of colours and shapes available customers can stamp their own style on their rooms."

But is there a real no, no for this season? Not according to Mockie.

She adds: "Never say no! Everyone needs to be less anxious about the design of their rooms.

"You should start with the mood that you want to create in a room.

"Use soft subtle tones to create an easy living atmosphere. Catwalks often give inspiration and enable us to carry a fashion trend through to the interiors market.

"Designers are always looking for a connection that leads to a trend.

Question Time for transport system

ON THE PANEL: Leader of Milton Keynes Council, Isobel McCall will be taking your questions

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

AN expert panel based on a popular TV show is to answer residents' questions on transport.

Transport Question Time is organised by the Citizens' Advisory Group on Transport (CAGoT), which has been set up to look at the future of the city's transport system.

The meeting, based on the format of BBC's Question Time, will feature an expert panel including leader of Milton Keynes Council, Isobel McCall; Prof. Stephen Potter – the Open University's transport professor and an international expert on sustainable transport; and Theo Chalmers from Urban Eden, which aims to promote a sustainable extension of the original master plan for Milton Keynes.

The organisers are also working to secure a business panel member and a bus company representative.

The panel, which will be chaired by OU director of communications Derek Prior, will answer questions on transport issues and CAGoT will consider the responses.

The group, which comprises 22 randomly selected residents from across Milton Keynes, will continue meeting during the next two months to prepare their findings and submit them to the council for consideration at the end of October.

Transport Question Time will be held on Thursday, September 11 at The Open University, Berrill Lecture Theatre from 7pm until 9pm.

Admission to the event is by ticket only, with a maximum booking of four per person. Call 01908 888710 to reserve.

The OU will also record the event so it can be accessed on the Internet afterwards.

MUSIC REVIEWS

DAWN OF THE DEAD

Does It Offend You, Yeah?

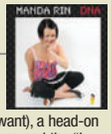
SOME people like to see songs do well purely on how fit the singer is.

Other people like to see songs do well because they were sung by someone nice off the telly. There are even a handful of people who like to see songs do well just because the songs themselves are good.

Personally, I'd like to think I fit into the third category, but I'll be honest with you, if the band or singer has a daft name that also helps – shows creativity, you see. Let's be honest, with a name like Does It Offend You, Yeah?, this band aren't exactly aiming for the easy listening brigade, but the song itself isn't particularly hardcore. Actually, it sounds a little bit like the Killers with an English accent, but different enough to stand on its own two feet. Do you know something, I rather like this one, so band names be damned, this time it's all about the song. And is that a steel drum I can hear in the background? If it is, that's got to be the first time one of those has been in the charts since Boney M were sweeping all before them.

DNA

Manda Rin



IMAGINE, if you will (or if you want), a head-on collision between seventies disco and the "I-wish-I-was-around-in-the-eighties" stuff that the likes of Calvin Harris are putting out.

There'd be a hell of a mess to clear up for starters, mirrorball fragments and Frankie Say Relax T-shirts all over the shop, not to mention enough flourescent colours to give the most hardy rescue workers the mother and father of all migraines. And, lying somewhere in the wreckage, there'd be this.

It sounds like a disco song, but it also sounds incredibly eighties and by extension, exactly the sort of thing that the kids on the street are listening to at the moment. They might not be listening to this on your street, but that's not my fault is it? It's not going to go down in history as an all-time classic, but that's not really what it's about. It's just a decent song that doesn't want you to think you've wasted four minutes of your life listening to it and it succeeds. Manda Rin's previous band only ever had two Top 40 singles and one of those was the criminally underrated Eurodisco, so it's about time she had a proper hit single I reckon. There, that's told you.

WHEN I GROW UP

Pussycat Dolls

"BE careful what you wish for 'cause you just might get it" sing the Pussycat Dolls and as luck would have it, they were absolutely right.

I wished for the song to end and that's exactly what happened. It took longer than I'd have liked, but you can't have everything can you? This is loaded with attitude, it's funky and it's sassy – a word I don't think I've ever used before in this column, probably because it's a bit naff. It does rather sum the song up, though, which is why I've been compelled to use it. You've got the lead singer trying to sing the verses while her bandmates laugh at her, some bloke winding up an alarm clock in the background nearly all the way through (listen out for it, once you notice it it rapidly becomes very annoying) and an extended "drum" solo that sounds like a load of loops chucked together. Oh, and did I mention that the song assumes that everyone wants to be famous? Yeah, well, stuff that for a game of soldiers! I'd bet there are more than a few celebrities who secretly yearn for the days when they thought "paparazzi" was a pizza topping, so why should the rest of us go there? Besides, if everyone was famous there'd be nobody left to read the gossip magazines, which means mags like Heat would go out of business which'd then reduce demand for celebrity pictures as the outlets for illicitly-taken snaps dwindles to nothing, which would leave the rich and famous free to wander about the streets… without being harrassed… hang on a minute& I think the Pussycat Dolls are onto something here. Inspiration comes from the most unlikely of places, doesn't it?

FILM REVIEW: STEP BROTHERS

BRENNAN Huff (Will Ferrell) is a thirty-nine-year-old who still lives with his divorced mother.

Dale Doback (John C. Reilly) is a forty-year-old who lives with his widower father.

Both of them are totally spoilt but all that changes when their parents marry each other and the boys have to live in the same room as step-brothers.

Crikey whatever could happen next? Can you guess avid filmgoers? Believe it or not, they don't get on at all and spend most of the film getting at each other and playing nasty pranks on each other.

Crazy goofball, chaos ensues as our two zany heroes childishly fight it out. (In other words it's a bit rubbish).

Do you think its just possible that towards the end of the film somehow they will understand and come to like each other and realise that they could be great pals after all?

Nah surely not, that would mean its like a million zillion other films and they wouldn't be brain dead enough to do that plot would they?

So if you liked films like Dumb and Dumber then you might like this.

As for me, well pass me a stool and a brush and some Dulux and I'm off to watch paint dry.

WEST SIDE STORY
Milton Keynes Theatre
September 16 - 27
AS the latest casualty of gang warfare on London's mean streets is laid to rest by his grieving family dis-organised knife crime comes to Milton Keynes.
Thankfully at present, the fighting is still taking place largely on stage. And there's not a hoodie in sight.
When West Side Story first opened on Broadway in 1957 it received mixed reviews and lost out to The Music Man in the battle for that year's Tony awards: a moral and wholesomely cheery rom-com walked all over the racial hatred and sexual abuse that reared its ugly dramatic head in this twentieth century reworking of Romeo and Juliet.
Half a century later West Side Story has got its own back. Apart from one very recent revival The Music Man is largely forgotten.
Leonard Bernstein's music and Stephen Sondheim's lyrics are as fresh and as witty as when they were first written down but it's true that the book by Arthur Laurents is dated.
Most of the dialogue played out by these rival gang members sounds as if it could be taking place at the annual convention of a bunch of Sunday School teachers. And, these days, a working-class hero wearing slacks and neatly-pressed baby-blue shirt is, let's face it, a bit of a novelty.
The man with the original concept for the show, Jerome Robbins, was also its director and choreographer. And he ain't letting go of it even now.
At the insistence of his estate the original script and dance moves have been preserved step-by-step and, good as they are, you almost long for a 21st century edge to be introduced.
But the strength of this show lies in the age-old human tragedy at its core. Young men, with too much testosterone racing round their systems and too much to prove need their energies channelling into something positive. Or else.

In this case, the ticking hormone time bombs are Polish Catholic immigrants, the Jets and Puerto Rican newcomers, the Sharks.
Simmering in the heat of a New York summer the two gangs settle their differences in the only way they know how. But passions come to the boil when the newly-arrived Maria falls for Tony, older and wiser than his former Jet brothers but still not smart enough to have figured out how to stay out of trouble.
The real power of this production lies in the music. These are songs that send a shiver down your spine, tears coursing down your cheeks and laughter from your lips. Tonight, Maria, I Like To Be In America, One Hand - One Heart, I Feel Pretty, Somewhere - Bernstein and Sondheim were never better and, with a company as talented and energetic as the one currently appearing at Sadlers Wells in London, who knows? Something's coming; something good. And it's gonna be great. Don't miss it.

THE MIRIMAR DISASTER, OUR MAN IN THE BROOZE AGE, THE SONORTIC EXPERIMENT & MIGGIDDIO
Friday September 5
SHEFFIELD'S epic titans The Mirimar Disaster make a welcome return to action with their incredible new mini album 'Volumes', set for release this week.
Since 2007 the band have toured the UK and played shows across the country with the likes of Genghis Tron, 65daysofstatic, Will Haven, Arch Enemy, Mastodon, The Ghost Of A Thousand, Devil Sold His Soul and Textures to name but a few.
It's been an interesting ride for the quartet, who saw the exit of original singer Ian Stocky Stockdale only months after the release of their debut album.
Although it was a curious departure, the band cited it as the only way The Mirimar Disaster could continue to evolve and grow. Now with guitarist Frank Forman stepping into the forefront, backed as always by drummer Iain 'Slomo' Scott, the reinvented quartet are clearly stronger and more confident than ever.

OUR Man In The Bronze Age are back with their special brand of Sonic Doom, if you have never witnessed the power of the bronze before this concert is a must for serious music fans who like spralling, soundscapes played at ear splitting volume.
Tickets £6.00. Doors 7.30pm.

GARDENLIFE

The grass isn't always greener

I ALWAYS think that autumn is a very British month.
The trees turn beautiful shades of red, yellow and bronze, the Elder is full of berry and there is a chill in the air.
The garden begins to look a bit untidy and its time to think about filling the borders with fresh colour and movement. Asters are the colourful stars of the autumn border, providing an array of flowers from September to Christmas.
Most perennial asters flower in late summer and autumn. To get the best effect, plant them at the back of a border combined with other late-flowering plants, such as Japanese anemones. Asters are fast-growing perennials that will benefit from being divided in late autumn or early spring every year or two. (Don't forget Sedums and Chrysanthemums for extra autumn colour).
Grasses are the plants to add movement; they are the ultimate architectural plants. They also tolerate a broad range of conditions, from gravel to clay. Grasses can provide colourful ground cover between feature plants, add enormous height or striking flowering spikes. They can be used in borders as features, or repeated in drifts to create a natural look. Some can even be grown in containers.

Cortaderia Selloana (Pampas Grass): Be careful where you place these, as they can become huge. You can get dwarf varieties which only reaches 1.2m others will reach 3m, so choose wisely.
Stipa Gigantea (Golden Oats): Beautiful clump of 60cm (2ft) evergreen leaves topped, in summer, with an array of flowering spikes, which can reach (8ft).
Miscanthus sinensis 'zebrinus' deciduous grass producing dense clumps of arching, gold or cream variegated foliage in spring, reaching a height of about 1.2m (4ft) before erupting into a mass of feathery flowers.
Stipa tenuissima: Wonderful feathery grass that sways in the breeze
Uncina Rubra: Striking transparent green with bright red tips
Imperata cylindrica rubra 'Red Baron' (Japanese Blood Grass)
Ophiophogon Planiscapus 'Nigrescens' (Black Grass): Although not technically a grass (a lily really_ it's has beautiful black evergreen foliage.
These are happy in the ground and are also fun in containers
Hakonechloa macra: This is a popular perennial because it arches and flops.
Festuca Glauca 'Elijah Blue': evergreen vivid blue/green grass

Growing tips
Most grasses are easy to grow, full sun being the main requirement, and most tolerate a wide range of soils. The more nitrogen grasses receive, the greener and further they'll grow.
Cut deciduous grasses hard back in February and give them thick mulch.
Other jobs in the garden this month
Look out for green fly on winter-flowering pansies and other plants. Wash off or treat with a suitable insecticide.
Give roses a final deadhead and shorten tall stems slightly to reduce wind rock. However, leave hips for autumn colour.
Look out for bulbs for autumn planting and hyacinths and daffodils that are prepared for early flowering at Christmas.

Liz Thurley is a garden designer and the owner of Roman Way Garden Centre. If you have any questions get in touch at info.romanway @yahoo.co.uk or call 01908 542427.

DIM T

5 Mortimer Square, The Hub
Midsummer Boulevard
01908 393694
Review by Rob Gibson

DIM T is another fantastic addition to the city's eateries.
This restaurant bills itself as a modern, relaxed and affordable restaurant but other adjectives might include clean, refreshing and exotic.
Half way through our meal I realised that I was utterly hooked on green tea.
I consumed the best part of two pots before lunch was over and both were served in an iron tea pot which I wanted to take home.
For the health concious among us, the menu includes steamed dishes and salads but we were determined to gorge on the delights of the orient.
With this in mind we ordered four dishes (£2.90 each) from the dim sum menu as a starter.
First on our list was the chicken, wasabi and mushroom basket, three beautifully spicy parcels of tastebud dynamite.
Prawn, crushed peanut and coriander was good but our waiter's recommendation of spicy beef was my personal favourite, with some very nice beef.
Finally we tried the 'buns' option, which was roasted pork encased in a fluffy sweet dough for a change from the standard dim sum.
My guest went for the chicken teryaki (£8.10) with plenty of udon noodles, oyster mushrooms, pak choi, red peppers and spinach.
The presentation was splendid, the portion plentiful and the result, a satisfying main.
I opted for that classic favourite, the crispy duck (£9.40), which was listed in the specialities menu.
The dish included a large leg of duck and plenty of pancakes to drizzle the hoi sin sauce over.
Again, it was immaculately presented (in line with the restaurant's decor), and definitely deserves to be called a house speciality.
At other tables the soup noodles and salads looked very appetising and the ambience was relaxed and fun for the lunch time crowd.
Against all common sense, we decided to try the banana fritters (£3.95) for dessert and another pot of tea each (ginger tea with honey £1.75, gun powder tea £1.80).
Overall the service was excellent, the atmosphere good and the food sublime.

Building blocks of a career in construction

MILTON Keynes College is to offer youngsters a new construction diploma.

The 'Construction & the Built Environment' diploma from ConstructionSkills, the national training organisation is launched across a select number of schools and colleges in the UK this September.

It will provide 14 to 19 year olds with the chance to develop their knowledge of one of the UK's fastest-growing industries.

The new course – which has a strong focus on construction professions such as engineering, architecture and surveying – is designed to encourage more young people to continue learning for longer and will provide them with the skills required for further and higher education and employment.

Maureen McColl, programme leader for the new diploma at Milton Keynes College, explained: "The diploma will open up the industry to more young people so the college is offering the qualification at all three levels to provide the widest opportunity for all academic abilities.

"By working with local employers – who have a real opportunity to shape the skills of the future workforce – we can ensure the qualification delivers exactly what the industry needs, whilst giving pupils a head start in their chosen career."

The college will have 70 places for the diploma (including foundation, higher and advanced levels) this year and local employers will be key to the success of the new qualification.

Ged Humphries of ConstructionSkills explained: "As well as needing employers to take on pupils for ten day work placements, we are also calling on employers to consider other ways of getting involved. For example, mentoring pupils, providing old project plans, volunteering staff as case studies for career progression, giving classroom presentations and hosting site visits.

"There is a real opportunity here for local construction companies to enhance pupils' experiences by getting involved. As well as offering their own expertise, our regional staff will be facilitating these industry links and will offer advice to companies wishing to get involved," Ged concluded.

Gymnasium-come-Saunarium

BANNATYNE'S Health Club in Milton Keynes is set for a £155,000 upgrade programme to develop its swimming pool and shower areas.

The project at the Midsummer Boulevard-based health club includes the installation of a new steam room and refurbishment of the existing sauna and will be complete by the end of September.

Also new to Bannatyne's will be a Saunarium, which is a new innovation allowing for a slightly lower temperature with higher humidity. Replacing an existing sauna at the health club, the Saunarium heater maintains a temperature of around 60-65˚C with a humidity of 30-40 per cent.

Bannatyne's is also replacing the flooring surrounding the heated indoor swimming pool and a brand new spa bath, which will also benefit from improved access.

Both male and female changing areas will also be upgraded with refurbished shower systems.

The refurbishment of the health club is part of its ongoing development by its owners, Bannatyne Fitness. Acquired in 2006 from Hilton International, the health club has been rebranded and refitted with the latest in exercise equipment to bring it into line with Bannatyne's 61 other health clubs across the UK.

Nigel Armstrong (pictured), managing director of Bannatyne Fitness, said: "This upgrade is part of our commitment to offering the best possible membership experience to people in Milton Keynes.

"The health club has a very loyal membership and we want to reward them with high quality facilities and new and innovative exercise and wellbeing opportunities."

He added: "The Saunarium will be an interesting addition to the poolside, which I am sure our members will enjoy as they relax after exercise or a hard day at work."

PERRYS SETS THE STANDARD WITH BLUE LION RANGE

Perrys in Milton Keynes is helping customers identify the cleanest and most environmentally friendly vehicles in the Peugeot range, with the launch of Peugeot's new Blue Lion standard.

This new initiative has been developed by Peugeot, so customers can easily identify vehicles which will reduce their day-to-day running costs, emissions and waste. The choice includes the models from the 107, 207 and 308 ranges, along with the compact 1007, which is the ultimate city car.

In order to qualify for the standard, all Blue Lion vehicles must have CO2 emissions of 130 g/km or less, be made in an ISO 14001 certificated manufacturing plant and be 95% recyclable.

Peugeot's Blue Lion line-up not only drives down the environmental impact but also reduces the ongoing fuel and road tax costs, with highly desirable miles per gallon capabilities and many of the cars falling into the lowest vehicle excise duty band, which requires road tax of just £35.

The Blue Lion range is available with a range of petrol and diesel engines and, therefore, customers can also enjoy the benefits of Peugeot's HDi diesel engine technology, which gives improved fuel economy and great driveability.

Dealer Principal at Perrys of Milton Keynes, Mike Beevis comments: "I've noticed that customers are becoming increasingly aware of the environmental impact of their car and are keen to curb their carbon footprint and running costs. The Blue Lion branded vehicles significantly reduce the costs of motoring and customers have the choice of 50 models that have CO2 emissions of 130 g/km or under - so there really is something for everyone, whether you're a young driver or need space for the family."

The compact 107 is one of the lowest CO2 emitting vehicles available in the UK. It features a 1.0 litre petrol engine that emits just 109g/km. Another popular Blue Lion choice is the 207 1.6 HDI 90, which utilises one of Peugeot's class leading diesel engines to keep emissions to 117g/km and places it among some of the most environment-friendly cars in the Supermini class.

Customers at the dealership on Bilton Road can also find out about the new 308 HDi 90 model, a family car with a state of the art diesel engine that produces very low CO2 emissions of 120g/km. This model combines great driveability with low fuel consumption, enabling 74.34 mpg on the Extra Urban drive cycle. Drivers are therefore able to travel up to 800 miles on a full tank of diesel, which is great news, particularly with the increasing cost of fuel in the UK.

For further information about Peugeot's Blue Lion range or to arrange a test drive, please visit the dealership on Bilton Road, Bletchley, Milton Keynes or call 01908 360 200. Alternatively, log on to www.peugeot.co.uk/perrys_milton_keynes

Save money servicing your car
VW, AUDI, SEAT, SKODA

Our customers come from all over the country because of our good name and personal service where they can speak to the engineer working on their car. Our work is second to none and they still save up to 50% on main dealer prices

Our workshop is not housed behind a flashy reception area where you hand your keys over and your car disappears not to be seen again until you pay your bill.

We run an open workshop where the customer is shown what's wrong with their car and you can discuss the solutions with the engineer.

Our workshop carry's the latest VAG approved equipment including

- VAG approved computer diagnostics
- VAG approved four wheel alignment
- Tyre fitting and computerised balancing
- Air conditioning services
- VAG trained technicians
- Reception with broadband access

We offer a full range of tuning services including engine tuning and track day preparation.

Current Offers
FREE Diagnostic check
FREE Safety Check
50% OFF Air con service

Willen hosts Jetski champs

JET SKIING

EXPECT splashes, noise and drama at Willen Lake this weekend as the British Jet Skiing Championships come to town.

World, European and UK Jetski champions will converge at the lake for the final round of this year's British Championships.

Over 60 competitors, including current World freestyle champion Lee Stone, junior champion Matthew Edwards, 14, and European champion James Bushell, 23, will all be hoping to clinch the titles.

Participants between the ages of 10 to 55 compete in numerous races around a buoyed circuit, with the top GP formulas reaching speeds of up to 80mph.

The format is simple; up to 20 riders will line up to race over a set period, anything from eight to 14 minutes, around a buoyed course, as the race progresses the conditions get difficult to negotiate and fatigue plays a big part – only the strongest survive.

The incredible speeds constants reach wow the crowd, but it is the display of freestyle skills that will have to impress a panel of judges.

It starts this Saturday at 1pm-5pm, and continues on Sunday at 9am-5pm.

For more information visit www.jsra.co.uk.

Paralympic swimming champ now chases basketball Gold

OLYMPIC fever wearing off? Not to worry the 2008 Beijing Paralympics begin on Saturday.

And one of Great Britain's stars is based here in Milton Keynes.

Andy Blake, who plays for Milton Keynes Aces wheelchair basketball team, already has a gold medal to his name but that is in a completely different sport.

Blake won gold for the 50metres freestyle in Seoul 1988 on his Paralympic debut at the age of just 16.

Having switched sports nine years ago 36-year-old Blake, a forward, captained Paralympics GB in Athens four years ago when they won bronze.

The fifteen strong men's squad includes seven of the players who helped the team to bronze in 2004.

His MK Aces team mate Simon Brown is also part of the squad.

It is 22-year-old Brown's first Games.

The competition for the wheelchair basketball gets under way on Sunday with the finals scheduled for September 16.

Britain's men face hosts Australia in their opening game, followed by China, USA, Brazil and Israel.

They will take place at the University of Science and Technology Gymnasium before the finals at the National Indoor Stadium.

SPORTSSHORTS

Newport's Wembley dream still alive

NEWPORT Pagnell Town have made it through to the next round of the FA Cup.

It took until extra-time to beat Cirencester Town 1-0 but it was well worth it as 117 fans watched Newport Pagnell book their place in the FA Cup First Round Qualifying.

They will now host the winners of Ringwood Town/Marlow in the next round.

The tie will take place on Saturday, September 13, kick-off at 3pm.

Ice Hockey fixtures confirmed

MK Lightning have confirmed their first game of the season will be against the recently saved Telford Tigers.

They will host the Tigers on Saturday, September 13 and then travel to their opponents on Sunday, September 14.

It will be the first chance for fans to see new signings including Andre Smulter, James Pease, Lewis Christie and Lukas Zatopek.

Gunner signs on for another tour of duty

MARK Randall has signed a new contract with Arsenal.

The Bletchley youngster joined the Gunners as a scholar in the summer of 2006 and went on to sign professional terms in 2007. Randall, 18, made his first team debut against West Bromwich Albion in the League Cup in October 2006 and has gone on to appear six times for the first team.

Having spent time on loan with Championship side Burnley last season he returned to feature in the last League game of the season against Sunderland, and played in six of the club's pre-season friendlies.

Last month Randall made his debut in the Champions League when Arsenal played FC Twente.

Randall celebrated his new deal with a goal against Chelsea in Monday's reserve fixture despite losing 3-2

New hovercraft world champ hails from MK

MILTON Keynes has a new world champion in the shape of Tony Goldney from Newport Pagnell

Tony, from Newport Pagnell, has just returned from Sweden where he took the Formula One World Hovercraft Championship. Competing in his Suzuki GSXR750 motorcycle engine hovercraft Tony had won the first four races.

He could have clinched the title in the fifth race but struggled through with damage top his hovercraft.

However, he finally won in the sixth after the British team made repairs in time for Tony to take his crown.

You can see Tony in his bid to become UK national champion for the second time at Whittlebury Park in the final round of the UK championship on the September, 20 and 21, for more information visit www.hovercraft.org.uk.

Fans furious with ref over last-minute penalty kick

CONTROVERSY seems to follow Steve Bennett around and his trip to stadiummk was no different.

The referee, who is used to taking charge of matches in the Premier League, found himself surrounded by furious MK Dons players when he awarded a 90th minute penalty to Swindon Town.

Simon Cox stepped up and duly obliged as he converted from the spot to kick Swindon Town a dramatic winner.

But the defeat is a bitter pill to swallow as the Dons, and their fans, believe the foul should never have been awarded in the first place.

Bennett penalised Jemal Johnson for an alleged shirt pull on Craig Easton, something skipper Dean Lewington protested against and earned himself a booking for in the process.

To incense the home crowd further minutes later Kevin Gallen appeared to be brought down at the opposite end.

Speaking after the game Roberto Di Matteo was careful not to say anything the Football Association could fine him for.

He said: "I felt that the late penalty was a harsh decision by the ref.

"I've looked at it again on the TV, so I don't want to say too much about that."

To Bennett's credit he certainly added a talking point to a game that lacked action and excitement.

Instead it was one of costly misses and equally costly mistakes.

Sam Baldock could have got the Dons off the mark within minutes, only for his low effort to be taken away from goal by a plucky deflection, while Aaron Wilbraham, who must be one of the most frustrated strikers in the League right now, was denied a header by the woodwork.

Wilbraham has been in good form in recent weeks yet has found posts, players and keepers all blocking his goal-bound knocks.

Whereas Swindon had been lacking threat up front until ex-Robins defender Sean O'Hanlon gifted his old side the lead.

Cox stole possession from O'Hanlon and usual mistake from the centre back cost as Billy Paynter collected in the box and slotted in the opener.

The Dons had their own back 13 minutes later when Phil Smith miss judged Mark Wright's inswinger, came flapping out to grasp thin air and Jude Stirling arrived on time at the back post to level with his knee.

Not the most attractive goal, but one the Dons were happy to get.

Both sides would have taken a draw as the final whistle approached.

Yet, it wasn't to be for the Dons as Bennett spotted the tangle in the box and pointed to the spot.

So striker Cox stepped up to dispatch from the spot, leaving the Dons feeling robbed as they slipped to their first home defeat of the season.

MK Dons academy slipped to defeat at the hands of Everton.

The Dons' youngsters, which included a number of 15-year-old prodigies, came up against a Everton side packed with talent.

Mike Dove's under-18's side lost 4-0 to their hosts.

Goals from George Krenn, Tom McCready, Hope Akpan and Karl Sheppard capped a fine performance by Neil Dewsnip's side.

This Saturday the academy host Crystal Palace, kick-off is at 11am.

MK Dons have released ticket information for their upcoming game with Peterborough United.

With the fixture on Saturday, September 27 approaching fans can now purchase tickets.

But the Posh-Dons rivalry means there are guidelines to buying tickets.

-Tickets for the home sections of stadiummk will only be on sale to supporters residing in MK or LU postcodes who have registered with the MK Dons Box Office database.

Supporters not registered will need to produce two forms of ID (including proof of address) to purchase tickets.

-Home tickets will be available from MK Dons' online ticket service.

Tickets will be checked to ensure that address details remain within the restrictions.

THE Dons begin their defence of the Johnstone's Paint Trophy soon and this weekend they will discover who awaits them in the second round.

After being awarded a bye into the Southern Area second round, the Dons sat back and watched last night as the majority of League One and League Two were in action.

On Saturday the draw for the second round will take place live on footy fans' favourite show - SoccerAM on Sky Sports 1.

SEPTEMBER 1 at midnight signalled the end of the summer transfer window.

Here's the arrivals and departures at stadiummk.

PREVIEW

LEAGUE ONE
Saturday, Sept 6
stadium mk KO 3pm

BOTH teams are reeling from defeat and looking to bounce back in style.

Yeovil had their unbeaten start to the season ended by the 4-1 defeat at the hands of Carlise, while the Dons suffered their first loss at stadiummk.

The Dons could hand new signing Miguel Angel Llera a home debut but it will be hard to force Jude Stirling out of the side.

The utility man has been played in almost every position possible in Dons colours, yet has settle and centre back in recent weeks and has even added two goals to his name.

Meanwhile, Yeovil find their striker options slightly more limited after selling Lloyd Owusu on a free-transfer to Cheltenham Town on Monday.

Midweek Yeovil were sweating on the fitness of Aidan Downes and Danny Schofield.

The Dons could have the upper hand as Yeovil were in midweek action in the Johnstone's Paint Trophy.

Glovers' manager Russell Slade will hope his side do not feel the affects of tired legs, especially against Roberto Di Matteo's pacey men.

Darren Drysdale has been appointed as the man in charge this weekend.

The Lincolnshire referee has taken charge of four games this season, he's handed out 14 yellows and one red in that time.

IN the final week of the season Eaton Bray clinched the title with a convincing eight wicket win over North Crawley.

Stewart Phillipson top scored for Crawley with 46 but they were restricted to 165 all out with Gary Ellerton taking 3-46.

In reply an unbeaten 123 partnership between Paul Harris (56) and Josh Peacock (67) saw the champions home with six overs to spare.

New Bradwell, who could have won the division if Bray slipped up, beat Milton Keynes by two wickets.

Bradwell's Zaheer Ahmed (46) helped his side reach 220-8 in reply to MK's 217 all out.

It was a result that relegated MK along with Olney Town whose fate was sealed by MK City (305-8) thrashing Aspley Guise (125 all out) by 180 runs.

Knocks from Sean Van Eaden (49) and Nick Cunniffe (39) saw Newport Pagnell draw with Olney.

Winslow Town (184-8) finished third after beating Cublington by two wickets.

Division two

ELSTOW are promoted to division one as champions following their 136 run victory over Stewkley, while Old Bradwell go up as runners-up.

Once again Ghufran Mohammed was the star of the show with the ball for Park claiming 4-34 to give his side the victory.

Park must either claim two more points than Dinton from their final game or rely on Buckingham to survive relegation from the Home Counties West League if they are to be promoted.

NORTHANTS PREMIER LEAGUE

STONY Stratford won their second game of the season but are still stuck at the bottom of the table.

They are 18 points adrift at the bottom and have to play fourth placed Rushden Town in the final game.

Dons 'happy' as transfer window shuts

BY SIMONE CORGAN
simone.corgan@mk-news.co.uk

SOME managers are scratching their heads right now wondering why they never added a certain player to their squad in time, others, like Roberto Di Matteo, were happy to see the transfer window slam shut at midnight on Monday.

The Dons manager brought in one new face on the final day, Spanish defender Miguel Angel Llera, and had been hoping to seal another deal for a mystery player - someone he will reignite his interest in when the window re-opens in January.

The frenzied months of agents clogging the phone lines are over, for now, and Di Matteo is glad his players now have a chance to focus solely on their football.

"It settles the team down," Di Matteo said, "we've had a lot of speculation over the last six or seven weeks which hasn't helped the team at all.

"We're happy to start working and getting everybody together."

Llera, 30, agreed a one-year deal from Hercules CF at stadiummk and is likely to feature heavily due to Danny Swailes' long term Achilles problem.

The centre back is to undergo surgery after failing to recover from the injury that saw him on the treatment table over the summer.

Llera joins a new foreign contingency at the Dons which includes Florium Sturm, Flavien Belson and Ali Gerba, who is on international duty for Canada but will return to the club after the World Cup Qualifiers.

Di Matteo knows what it is like making the move over to English football, he successively made an impact on the game when he switched to Chelsea from Lazio in 1996, and he believes his new additions will feel right at home. Slowly we're starting to mould the team, get them all together to work for the same object.

Jude Stirling waits at the back post to score Dons only goal in Saturday' game against Swindon

"Miguel needs to learn English as fast as possible to communicate with the rest of the team.

"As a player it's up to you, if you want to adapt you settle in quickly. If you want to be a foreign body then it makes your life difficult.

"The team have made them feel welcome."

The Italian's major headache of the summer was ended when Keith Andrews finally completed his £750,000 mover to Blackburn on Thursday.

Meanwhile, there has been another departure at the Dons, this one behind the scenes.

Poulter's Ryder Cup selection drives a few opponents wild

IAN Poulter (above) has caused a stir in the golfing world following his inclusion in Europe's Ryder Cup squad.

The charismatic Woburn professional was one of captain Nick Faldo's wild card choices for the tournament which starts later this month.

But a number of ex-pros have slammed his inclusion stating they believe he will disrupt the team spirit which has helped Europe win three successive tournaments.

His inclusion has raised eyebrows as he opted out of the Johnnie Walker Championship, which could have earned him an automatic spot, to play in America where he failed to make the cut.

He was also picked ahead of Darren Clarke and Colin Montgomerie.

Bernard Gallacher, who captained Europe three times in the Ryder Cup, said: "I think the morale in the team might be a bit lower for picking Poulter ahead of Darren Clarke."

While Ewen Murray, Clarke's coach, fumed: "Should Ian have been picked? Of course he shouldn't. Not being at Gleneagles beggars belief for so many reasons.

"A private jet from his sponsors in America and in a few hours he could have sniffed the River Tay air having landed in Dundee.

"In half an hour, a limo would have him admiring the perfect lawns lovingly manicured by the staff of the Gleneagles Hotel.

"He boarded that jet...and headed for the wheelbarrow event that is part of the FedEx Cup. Poor? I think so.

"But then, why would you cross the Atlantic when you are already in the team? Please don't expect me to believe that wasn't the case."

Poulter has shrugged off the criticism and can not wait to get out on the green.

"I'm absolutely overwhelmed," he added. "It's awesome.

'I'll bring excitement, I'll bring flair and I'll bring the passion I always play golf with and I think that will be an asset to the team."

Faldo, who earmarked Poulter's form in the Open earlier in the year as reason behind his selection, has backed him to shine under the pressure.

He said: "I'll be in his ear - he'll be all right.

"Knowing him, I think he's been thinking about it too much. He's an emotional guy and he gets wound up."
